Magnetic Alignment of Poly(carbonate)

Poly(carbonate) reacting with organic salt (sodium phenoxide or sodium o-chlorobenzoate) undergoes magnetic alignment of crystals with the c-axis aligned parallel to the applied external magnetic field.

X-ray diffraction pattern of the magnetically aligned poly(carbonate)